ASK ARTHY!

How to avoid birds in North Quad?

I admit it. I'm afraid of birds. I am terrified of their evil red eyes, their sharp talons, their pointy beaks and their ability to attack from above. All I want to do is eat my vegetarian lunch in North Quad in peace! If you're like me, don't be afraid to express your fears. Recent studies indicate that approximately 73% of Australians have some form of birdphobia. But fear no more! Using extensive research, I have developed a list of handy hints to escape the preying birds of North Quad!

1. WEAR EARTHY TONES

Birds identify bright colours as a threat. Therefore tailor your wardrobe around brown, blacks and greys and you'll be in the clear. If you're struggling to find such colours, don't hesitate to ask to borrow some of my outfits, I have an extensive collection of earthy tones.

2. WEAR CITRUS SCENTS

All birds are deterred by the smell of citrus. Therefore, chuck on some lemon-scented perfume or cologne before heading to lunch and those birds will fly right away!

3. AVOID CHICKEN

Although chicken seems to be on the menu every day at Bruce, try to avoid eating it outside. Due to the 'E' chromosome in birds, they are inherently cannibalistic and will not be afraid to swoop down and steal your chicken meal. Alternatively, like me, you could avoid meats altogether!

4. CLAP

Birds are drawn to quiet chatter. Therefore, to keep birds on their feet, clap, tap or yell loudly every so often during conversations. This will ensure the birds do not attack!

5. WEAR FULL BRIM HATS

Birds will not swoop you when they can't see the fear in your eyes. Therefore wear a big hat like me (see picture) to keep those birds at bay!

Niqab
A veil covering the head and face, but not the eyes, usually worn with a loose black garment (abaya) that covers from head to feet.

Hijab
A general term meaning 'to cover' or 'veil', most commonly refers to a headscarf that covers the hair and neck, but not the face.

Burka
A veil that covers the entire body and face, with a mesh window or grille across the eyes for a woman to see out of.

Chador
A full-length cloak worn by many Iranian women, typically held closed at the front by the wearer's hands or under their arms.

Dupatta
A long scarf loosely draped across the head and shoulders, common in south Asia and often paired with matching garments.

MELC EVENT

Islam and the headscarf

With calls to 'ban the burqa' now dominating commentary in Canberra, this panel discussion explores the link between Islam and the headscarf and how the Western world has become focused on the headscarf as representative of Islam

The headscarf has become the symbol of Islam for the Western world. What does this mean and why has it happened? Each of our four speakers will be addressing the topic from a different angle, followed by a Q&A session. This promises to be an exciting discussion touching on topics such as politics, religion, cultural identity and media representations.

Speakers:

Dr Raihan Ismail

Raihan is a lecturer at the Centre for Arab and Islamic Studies at the ANU. She will be looking at the relationship between Islam and the headscarf and the important differences between the different types of veils.

Dr Ashok Collins

Ash is an ANU lecturer in French Studies. He will be discussing France as a case study, looking at why the laws banning religious symbols in schools and public places are relevant to the symbolism of the headscarf for the Western world.

Fr John Parsons

John is a priest with the Catholic Archdiocese of Canberra and will be discussing the Abrahamic roots of Islam, its historic relationship with Christianity and how this history relates to the headscarf. He has previously spoken on the importance of seeing beauty in other religions to ensure harmony in society.

Ms Jacky Sutton

Jacky is a PhD student who has had a lot of experience dealing with gender issues in the Middle East and is also part of UN Women. She will be talking about the focus of the Western world on the headscarf that occurs when Islam is discussed in politics and the media.

ANU FILM GROUP SCREENING

A Most Wanted Man

7:30 PM, 9th October, 2014

Based on the novel by critically acclaimed John le Carré, the man who brought us Tinker Tailor Soldier Spy and The Spy Who Came in From the Cold, A Most Wanted Man is an intelligently textured spy thriller that boasts an immensely talented cast including the likes of Philip Seymour Hoffman, Rachel McAdams, Willem Dafoe, Robin Wright and Daniel Brühl.

A Still Life

7:30 PM, 3rd October, 2014

Stars Eddie Marsan, Joanne Froggatt, Karen Drury, Andrew Buchan

John May (Marsan) works for the local council, tasked with finding the next of kin of those who have seemingly died alone. He likes to go above and beyond his duties, even organising funerals for the deceased where he is the only person present. One day a new case hits him personally, as it happens to be in a flat directly opposite his own apartment. Given that he is told he will be made redundant and that this will be his last case, May is forced to look at the emptiness of his own existence.
