SATURDAY 24 MAY 2014 – SATURDAY 31 MAY 2014

Budget protest gains momentum

A contingent of Brucies were among this Wednesday's nation-wide student protest against university fee changes outlined in the federal budget.

After rallying support in Union Court, hundreds of students attempted to storm the ANU Chancellery (although went into the wrong building), clashing with security.

An 'occupy' movement later ensued, in which a smaller but dedicated group, led by the Socialist Alliance, chanted outside Vice Chancellor Ian Young's office into the evening.

To the cries of 'Abbot's a wanker' and fearing the corporatising of universities, Bruce residents donned anti-Budget cut T-shirts and waved placards, with some gaining coverage on national media.

Pumped up with a lunchtime address by Dave Tuckwell, around 20 Brucies attended the protest. Yet, despite a large police presence the protest remained peaceful.

The proposed deregulation of university fees, agreed to by Prof. Young could result in students paying higher fees and greater interest for their degrees.
