Doing it for Bill since 2014

ISSUE #91: Monday 17th April – Monday 24th April

Welcome back guys! Ooh does anyone notice a change? That's right, the background of this text box is lighter to make it easier to read! Welcome to the future everyone. Feedback about the Billetin will always be listened to so feel free to suggest any other changes I should make. I hope your holidays were relaxing and you gave yourself a proper break. These next few weeks will be full of good events so get excited for an awesome term.

WHAT'S ON IN CANBERRA

Head over to the Old Bus Depot this Saturday to have the Caribbean experience you've always dreamed of. There will be art, classic cars, some funky music, and mojitos for all! It'll be open from 5pm until midnight so it's the perfect way to spend the evening.

NATIONAL FILM AND SOUND ARCHIVE GHOST TOUR

With old fashioned buildings come ghosts and the National Film and Sound Archive is no exception. From the 6th of April until the 5th of May they will be taking groups of the brave hearted through the basement and underneath the stairs to explore all the disturbing stories down there. You must be 18+ to attend (I think it's because they serve wine, not because it's that scary, so don't be put off). You can book tickets at www.nsfa.gov.au

BIG NIGHT IN

7pm Sunday Night in the Quad

The Bruce Band has been practicing tirelessly throughout the holidays and are sounding even fresher than the good bread that pops up every week or so in the Dining Hall. They will be performing their whole BNO set list so you can learn all the lyrics and sing/yell along at the actual event. There will also be performances from the Bruce Choir and an open mike so if you have a passion for singing you can give it a crack. If you'd like to perform on the night then please tell the Arts reps (Isabelle Lee, Lucy Stedman, and Callum Dargavel) by signing up through the form on Banter. Come along to support Bruce's talented musicians and get pumped for the peak event of the Arts calendar coming up very soon afterwards.

P.S. Bring warm clothes and all your friends.

In a world full of increasing concern about the mental capacity of its leaders, Prime Minister Malcolm Turnbull has announced his plan to loan almost $1 billion to B&G billionaire, Gautam Adani, to fund a path from Bruce to the Carmichael Clothesline. The Carmichael Clothesline is intended to provide an environmentally friendly alternative to Bruce's current source of clothes drying; the collection of inefficient, energy-wasting dryers in the laundry. The path leading to it will run nearby the Great Barrier Fence between Bruce and B&G which is renowned for being the largest and most ecologically diverse fence in ANU, and for bringing billions of dollars in tourism with tourists visiting from as far away as UniLodge.

Environmental activist group BrownPeace has been quick to raise concerns about the impact of this proposal. "It will dramatically reduce carbon emissions from Bruce Hall, reduce the laundry fee cost to Bruce taxpayers, and won't ruin the Great Barrier Fence at all" a spokesperson from BrownPeace announced in a recent press conference. "We have no idea why the Government would support an initiative such as this which is so beneficial for the environment".

Following this announcement, One Nation Senator Malcolm Roberts immediately proclaimed his support for BrownPeace as he is worried that the Clothesline will steal all the wind from the air, and his local yacht squadron will no longer be able to operate. When prompted for comment about the Clothesline's capacity to reduce global warming, Roberts sprinted into Bruce and resigned himself a life of squatting next to a heater in order to survive the imminent arrival of the next Ice Age. Billetin reporters attempted to continue questioning him, but the gurgling of the heater was intolerable to listen to and they were forced to retreat.

PM Turnbull has reached out to the Billetin to clarify the motive behind his decision in an attempt to quash the backlash from virtually the entire ANU population. "Of course I don't usually support anything that helps the environment" he told Billetin reporters sternly, "but if we decided to break down the Great Barrier Fence to build the path then it would be even harder to stop the boats from B&G, so it's necessary to go around it instead".

Trusted sources have confirmed that Bill Shorten has requested the help of United Airlines to ensure that Mr Adani does not arrive in Australia safely to accept the deal and begin construction. More to come soon.
