

The Bruce Billetin

Doing it for Bill since 2014

ISSUE #88: Monday 13th March – Monday 20th March

A classic long weekend at ANU is usually preceded by a collective feeling of motivation as we are presented with 3 days to study and catch up on class. By Monday, a slight sense of guilt is felt as it's almost certain no study was done on Saturday and Sunday. Oh well, just enjoy it and celebrate Canberra day however you please.

WHAT'S ON IN CANBERRA

ART, NOT APART

The descriptions of this event have been pretty vague but it's definitely from 1-7pm on Saturday in the NewActon precinct. It appears to be about art (which isn't apart) but apart from that the details are loose. Music stages, street installations, dance parties, performance art, street food, and more will be present so I'm not really sure what this is tbh.

Head down to Lake Burley Griffin this Saturday night for Skyfire; a 20 minute long fireworks display. Pre-show entertainment will start from 6pm with flyovers from fighter jets and helicopters, as well as live performances from Busby Marou and DJ Horizon. The fireworks will begin after sunset.

An ode to the Mardi Gras

Before we begin, take heed of my warning,
That this article will be extremely boring,
For I'm above sexual humour as it's too crass,
I've repressed all my jokes which relate to an ass.

Just kidding, stuff that; it's the mardi gras, Puns are fine, but the photos are too far,
So let's reminisce and relive the night,
Which, for a sober rep, was an absolute delight.

At 8 on the dot, the music was loud,
The buttery was ready, but where was the crowd?
I've since been informed that dressing up takes time,
When you're wearing so little that it's almost a crime,
Because it's important to note that by preparing yourself slower,
You can disguise the fact that you're a grower not a shower,
In fact, all it takes to avoid these issues,
Is the clever placement of a handful of tissues.

Some gents embraced this and took it even farther,
To show off their potential to get much harder,
So when thrusted from behind I should have known,
That it wasn't a dick, but Henri Scott's traffic cone.

Trivia

That scary experience filled me with despair,
So I walked outside to get some fresh air,
I lay on the ground underneath the round
moon,
But alas, it was dripping with goon!
Shock gripped my heart and raced through my mind,
As I realised the moon was Ben Potts' behind.

By this time, the dance floor was pumping, Everyone's signature move appeared to be humping,
Glitter and feathers flew through the air,
As everyone pranced around in their underwear.

JJ's whip was being put to good use,
As the night grew old and we all grew loose,
Lines of people were touching their toes,
As he grabbed the whip and distributed some blows,
My ears were met by a series of "oww"s,
As they copped a hit and pretended not to be aroused.

The night was nearly over when Schmidt's last balloon popped,
After horses, the music was stopped,
The crowd dispersed with footsteps like thunder,
As they ran to their rooms while avoiding the chunder,
Because it still seems that despite all the chalk,
On Thursdays the stairs are not a nice place to walk.

But enough of the humour, and more of the pride,
There's a well known fact I would like to confide,
That people of any sexual orientation,
Are welcomed at Bruce without degradation.
