

The Bruce Billetin

Doing it for Bill since 2014

ISSUE #104: Monday 21st August – Monday 28th August

Featuring the Bruce play, Open Day, and the first IB Mock Drop, week 5 is guaranteed to be a big one. Get involved in all of the above and enjoy the first few hints of warmer weather. Mid-semester exams are also in the not-too-distant future so have a chat with your SR about how to preserve your health throughout them.

There are 4 sheep in this Billetin

WHAT'S ON IN CANBERRA

CANBERRA WRITERS FESTIVAL

Various venues, 0.4km from CBD
25-27 Aug 2017

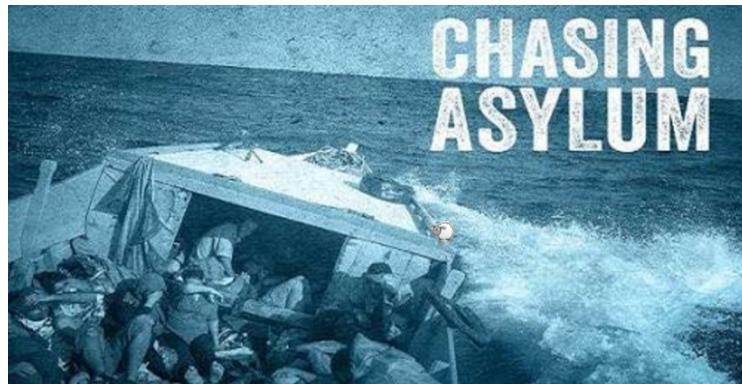

The theme for this year's Canberra Writers Festival is 'Power, Politics, Passion', which sounds like it could be the name of an ANUSA ticket. With authors including Garth Nix, Jamila Rizvi, and Tony Jones from Q&A, you'll be sure to find someone interesting. Full program here: <http://bit.ly/2vgwJGs>

NIGHT SKI & RIDE

Corin Forest, 32.3km from CBD
12 Jul - 2 Sep 2017

Did you know that there's a ski field in the ACT? It probably doesn't shape up to skiing in Europe but considering how much closer it is you might want to give it a try. Every Wednesday night they deck out the ski park with a new rail or jump so every time you go you'll have a different experience. More info here: <http://bit.ly/2uNnReM>

Monday 8pm in the Theatre Room

The Social Justice sub-committee has collaborated with the Burgmann Charities committee to bring you this screening of the documentary 'Chasing Asylum'.

This documentary tells the story of Australia's treatment of asylum seekers and refugees, examining the human, political, financial, and moral impact of current and previous policy.

If you're not sold yet, there will be snacks and potentially some new Burgmann friends! There will also be the exciting launch of a top secret inter-college initiative so please turn up for that.

Snacks and mingling will start at 8pm, the documentary will be shown at 8:30pm, and the night should be wrapped up by 10pm so you can all have a respectable bedtime if you so desire.

Photo: a Bruce resident seconds after killing their target in Murder Week

When armed with a water pistol and directed to shoot a target without any witnesses to the crime, it appears that one's integrity is almost instantly reduced to nothing. This became clear in the first few hours of Murder Week as many residents realised that their close friends are in fact the slippiest snakes to have slithered on this earth. With betrayals that would rival the drama of a poor-quality reality TV show, this week has left hundreds of friendships more fragile than the 'Stand Apart for ANUSA' ticket.

When presented with danger, people often take drastic measures to escape and the Billetin was lucky enough to interview some survivors of Murder Week about their traumatic experiences. "It's a zoologist's dream come true in here; I've never seen so many reptiles in one place" claimed Barnaby*, "Did you know that New Zealand doesn't have any snakes in the entire country? I'm thinking about becoming a citizen and moving over there. I will reJOYCE when I'm safe once again".

The Bruce admin have agreed that it is unreasonable to expect all residents to move to New Zealand to seek sanctuary from the snake infestation, so they have announced their intention to clone Steve Irwin and let him loose in the Bruce building. It is anticipated that Steve will clear the building of snakes within a week or two, however it is unknown how long the cloning process will take.

Support has also come from outside the Bruce community as ANUSA have offered all Bruce residents free lessons about how to hold a grudge, so that everyone can seek their revenge with the passion it deserves when Murder Week comes around again next year.

For now, the Billetin urges all residents to remain calm and keep an eye out for the snakes still living with us. One of the most reliable signs that someone is a snake is when they promise that they aren't even playing Murder Week this year so you shouldn't worry that they will kill you. In this scenario, you should worry.

* Name changed for privacy reasons

1. What country is the Mekong Delta in?
2. What is a community of ants called?
3. Whose right-hand man is Mr Smee?
4. How many tablespoons are in a cup?
5. Which pasta is shaped like a bicycle?
6. Which was the first spacecraft to land on Mars?
7. What metal is also known as quicksilver?

Trivia

8. What is the capital city of Poland?
9. In Greek mythology, who beheaded Medusa?
10. Which Harry Potter character is part-giant?

